

Albany City Councilmen covered a lot of ground in their 30-minute session Monday night and wound up the meeting in a shouting match with a longtime critic.

Most important items to most of Albany would be Mayor Lewis M. Howell's directive to Administrative Officer James B. Turner to ask Albany Chamber of Commerce and Thousand Oaks Merchants' association to call a meeting of gas station operators and interested persons in an effort to influence the stations to stagger hours of business so more people can obtain gas and a decision to pursue the matter of obtaining a post office for Albany.

In explaining reasons for the gas meeting, Mayor Howell said many people because of their jobs are unable to get gas in the morning, adding those selling gasoline are having a hard time and there is a shortage of gas. He said perhaps one station would remain open on Sunday.

Following reading of a humorous yet serious letter from Leon Rimov detailing examples of poor mail service, Councilmen agreed the cost is up and the service is down. On motion of Councilman Joe Carlevaro, copies of Rimov's letter will go to postal officials and Congressman Ron Dellums and the idea of a local post office, not a branch of Berkeley, will be pursued.

The ordinance amending the Home Occupation Ordinance passed on second reading and will be found in today's Times.

Two claims against the city were denied and referred to the insurance carrier and City Attorney Lawrence Saler, who has not returned following major surgery. Referred to the budget committee was the matter of legislative approval of five percent increases in pensions, which Turner recommended for three retired Albany employees.

Bids will be opened April 1 for a new roof on the Community Center. Council approved hiring Katherine M. Bagley as part-time clerk typist in the Police department, a vacancy created by the resignation of Elsie Sanchez.

Councilman H. F. Call said he had been approached by several taxpayers who wondered if it would be possible to recover costs for the time of the administrative officer and city attorney and trips to Sacramento to work on lawsuits against the city. Another question concerned ed covering cost of an outside attorney to help Saler during the time he is working on lawsuits. Mayor Howell said the city's recovery of money when a lawsuit against the city is lost is small. In the case of the waterfront, perhaps millions of dollars in potential revenue has been lost because of lawsuits, he said. The matter will be discussed next week.

A letter from Anne Bell precipitated the argument which ended the session. She referred to the article in the Tribune in which a city employee reported she had been bullied because she had a political sign in her window for a candidate other than an incumbent. Mrs. Bell asked if "the bullying" had been caused by a letter from Howell on March 25 to all city employees regarding political activity. The memo from Howell was read. It directed all city employees to refrain from political action during business hours. Contrary action could result in termination, it read.

Robert Elliott, speaking under "Good of the City," said he was both curious and appalled at Howell's letter to city employees.

"What gives you the right" he asked.

The mayor explained such procedure is common in business.

One thing led to another and at one point Mayor Howell threatened to have Elliott ejected from the chambers.

Elliott stood his ground, questioning costs of trips to League of California Cities meetings, which are higher, he said, than comparable trips for members of the Board of Education.

Carlevaro angrily told Elliott he had badgered the Board of Education and was trying to do the same to the Council. "It's been the same story for six years!"

Call told Elliott expenditures are a matter of public record, they are published and budget hearings are open to the public. "That is the time to object, not a few weeks before election," Call said.

Carlevaro asked Elliott what he wanted to know. Elliott said he wanted honest councilmen. At that point, Carlevaro angrily reminded Elliott of a deal involving him and the Carlevaros in which he, an encyclopedia salesman, "did not tell the truth."

Elliott was followed by a fellow member of the Parkland group, Louis Bell, who commented, "I'm sorry there was not a larger turnout to see the performance of the past few minutes."

In his absence, Councilman Richard Clark submitted a page and a half explanation of his voting on the parkland purchased by Interstate General for the city of Albany. He asked that it be read into the record because of allegations of the claimants.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank the hundreds of citizens who attended our spaghetti dinner last Sunday, to lend their support to our campaign for re-election.

We would also like to give a very special thanks to all those who gave of their time and talents to make the event the huge success that it was.

Where else but Albany could public officials be on the receiving end of such enthusiastic support from their citizens?

Sincerely,
Mayor Lewis Howell
Councilman Joe Carlevaro

STANDING ROOM ONLY AT SPAGHETTI FEED

It was standing room only at the spaghetti dinner held last Sunday at the Albany Masonic Temple, by members of the Committee to Retain Howell and Carlevaro.

Attended by almost 1,000 people, probably one of the largest political gatherings ever held in Albany, the event lasted until 10 p.m., well past the 7 p.m. deadline originally planned.

Although there were no formal campaign speeches, those attending had the opportunity to talk to Mayor Lewis Howell and Councilman Joe Carlevaro, who were happy to discuss issues and answer questions for their constituents, in a relaxed and friendly atmosphere.

A large number of door prizes were awarded, with several going to persons not present when their names were drawn. The following winners may claim their gifts by calling Councilman Carlevaro at 524-1012: Ida Selvaggi, Dave McClelland, L. Celia, Viola Regan, Sam Nelson, Jack Kroll, C. Cogna, Noble Curll, Martha Hood, Al Finch and Jim Mabry.

Lions Club Sponsors Sight Clinic

The Sight Screening Clinic sponsored by Lions clubs of Alameda and Contra Costa counties will be at the Safeway Store on Solano from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, March 16, sponsored by Albany Lions.

The screening unit is designed to screen both visual function and eye health, according to Charles McCain, club president.

Another sight program in which Albany Lions participate recognizes the unfortunate fact that there are people in the community who are unable to afford the examination, treatment and possible surgery that could correct their visual impairments. Often these people are eligible for aid through some social agency, but sometimes this aid is not available.

McCain said that through his club's membership in the Lions Eye Foundation of California-Nevada, Inc., eye care, other than glasses, is available to residents who need it. This is specifically for people who can't afford private care, don't have medical insurance to cover it, or if they do have insurance, can't afford the deductible portions.

Those who feel they may be eligible are asked to contact J. Henry Kruse, sight conservation chairman for Albany Lions. His address is 801 Stannage Ave. or telephone 525-2920.

If you are eligible, an appointment will be made for you after examination by a local doctor, ophthalmologist or optometrist, indicates a possibility of correcting your eye ailment at a San Francisco facility.

This is one way in which Lions are repaying the public support given to their fund-raising functions.

Candidate Helps A Long Wait

Recognizing the frustration of the motorist forced to wait in an endless line for gasoline, Albany City Council candidate Patrick Griffin has not only provided free coffee for the drivers, but perhaps more importantly he has checked with the stations and walked to the end of the line to assure anxious people that the wait will eventually put gas in their tanks.

Baby Returned Unharmd

A man who held his ex-girlfriend at gunpoint for seven hours early Monday morning, threatened her life if she called police and then kidnapped their 20-month-old baby girl was in Albany jail Monday night charged with child stealing, burglary, assault with intent to commit murder and false imprisonment.

According to Police Chief James Simmons, the man broke down the woman's door in University Village about 1 a.m. When he left with the baby, he told her to come to the Nash hotel in Berkeley about 4 p.m. if she wanted the baby.

With the cooperation of Berkeley police, the hotel was staked out. The man left with the baby and another woman about 3 p.m. He went to UC campus, got out of the car and was arrested when he returned to his automobile. The baby was unharmd. The other woman was held for questioning by Berkeley police because she had a gun.

Chief Simmons said that, despite the threat on her life, the Village resident called police as soon as the man left.

Mayors Conference Ponders BART Crisis

Rapid Transit and the gasoline shortage, Alameda County mayors learned last Wednesday night at their meeting in Hayward, are much like the weather—everyone talks about it but there isn't much that can be done.

In fact, after Director George Silliman pleaded with the mayors to advise the board on how to cope with BART's $28 million operating deficit, the mayors did not vote on the matter. They asked Silliman to vote as he sees fit.

After a long discussion and much grumbling about the long lines at gasoline stations and a presentation by attorney Seymour Rose, who represents about 80 per cent of the service station operators in Alameda county, mayors declined to take action.

Albany Mayor Lewis M. Howell expressed disappointment as he left the meeting. "We didn't do anything for the people," he said.

Alternatives for funding BART consist of continuing the half-cent sales tax in the participating counties, raising fares to twice the present rate or using bridge tolls. Everyone seemed to agree that the most feasible is the continuance of the sales tax.

Silliman said BART is unable to operate 20 hours a day seven days a week as promised because of failure of cars to operate properly.

Many of the mayors had ideas on how to cut the long lines at gasoline stations. Getting increased allocations was popular. It is understood that those counties in BART get less gas because they have rapid transit available, but BART is not filling the need. Staggered hours

Now When You Take A Bible -It's Okay

Churches of the United States and Canada are joining hands with the World Home Bible League in an effort to place a copy of Reach Out, the New Testament portion of The Living Bible, in every motel room on this continent, according to the Rev. John DeVries, international director of WHBL.

The project is about two years old at this point and has been set up in 32 states and three provinces. Of the 1,200,000 motel rooms in the United States, 200,000 have had Reach Out placed in them.

Paradoxically, the aim of the project is to have transients take the New Testament with them, and to encourage Bible reading in this way. One month this summer 100,000 copies of the modern English New Testaments were taken by tourists. Printed on most hotel Bibles are the words "Please Leave In Hotel Room."

By the end of 1974, DeVries says the league plans to have contacted all the U.S. motels. An annual turnover of more than three million New Testaments is anticipated.

Inserts in each copy of Reach Out invite tourists to take the New Testament with them and to enroll in an interdenominational Bible correspondence course sent out from the local church which distributes the Bibles. Over 10,000 people enrolled in the Bible course in that month.

The World Home Bible League is an interdenominational Bible distribution agency with headquarters in South Holland, Ill. It was founded in 1928. Today its annual budget is more than three million dollars, and the league is working in 50 countries around the world.

The World Home Bible League, in cooperation with the New York Bible Society, is responsible for the publication of 95 per cent of the translations produced by Wycliffe translators.

During the next five years the World Home Bible League is undertaking a campaign to bring a gospel portion of every literate person in India. The organization is a service agency which works through existing churches and mission points.

Reach Out is a paraphrase of the original New Testament translated by Dr. Kenneth Taylor, who heads Tyndale House Publishers which produces this version and The Living Bible. Taylor spent 14 years in paraphrasing his Living Bible, which now has 12 million copies on the market.

The effectiveness of the Bible distribution ministry is seen in this true story:

A rather discouraged and lonely young serviceman was spending his last night in the U.S. in a motel room in southern California. He noticed an unusual looking New Testament called Reach Out on the bedside table. Curious, he began to read. It was illustrated with modern pictures and, to his surprise, the text was in modern English, too, and he understood it.

Later, the church which had placed that Reach Out in the motel received this letter.

"Thank you for leaving the new Bible in the motel. It brought me closer to God at a time when I needed Him most. I have read the first 25 chapters of Matthew and can't seem to take my eyes off the Word.

"Please send my wife a copy of Reach Out. She divorced me for what I did to her before I left. She didn't think I would change. Bless you people for giving me a chance with God again. I hope my wife and daughter will benefit from Reach Out as much as I did."

Churches interested in this ministry receive an attractive manual and a cassette commentary on the manual, without charge, from the World Home Bible League. After listening to and reading the details, the church makes a decision to participate in the motel program. A charter is signed and the church applies for a territory and an initial order of materials is sent.

About a month later one of 15 full-time representatives throughout the United States and Canada contacts the church and offers additional help.

Contemporary Custom

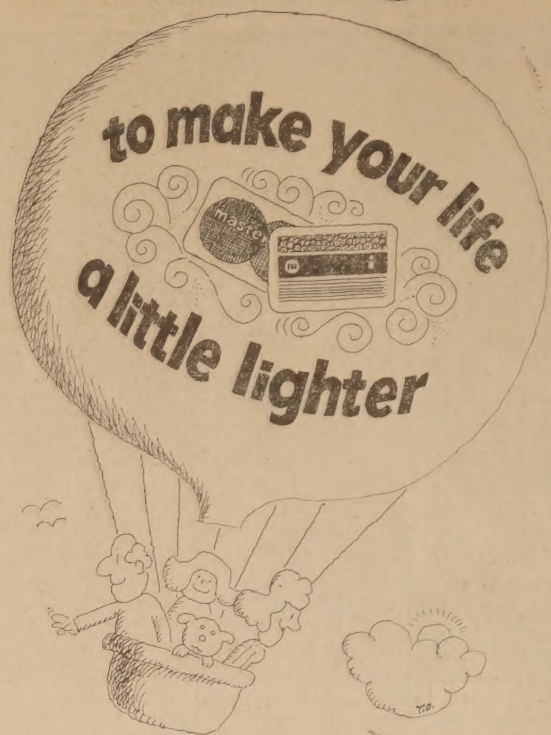

The custom of cigar giving at the birth of a child began in Europe in the 17th century, when cigars were very rare. It took such a profoundly gratifying event to get a man to share a treasure that might not be replaced until his ship returned from the New World. Today, the gift of a box of fine cigars has become a natural exchange during the holiday seasons. Cigars are still one of man's oldest pleasures. If you're not sure which ones to buy this Christmas, a visit to a good tobacconist is your best bet.

TELEPHONE CALLS

In 1948 less than 800,000 telephone calls were recorded from the U.S. to nations abroad. In 1972, the total exceeded 39 million—almost 50 times as many, according to the Bell System.

The Mail Bag

Dear Editor:

We've all heard (or used) the expression, "Where are the police when we need them?" As regards our Albany police, the answer appears to be, "On the job."

We Americans are unused to "queuing up." Manners and tempers wear thin in the chill dawn as we creep along in line, a wary eye on the gas gauge. Yesterday morning, an empty gas tank, cold feet and absence of available coffee did nothing to aid my serene nature when a car shot out of a side street and wedged into line in front of me. Observing that the interloper and his car were much bigger than me and mine, I discarded my first thought which was to attack with a tire iron, and prepared to content myself with quiet fuming.

Imagine my delight when a police car also came down the side street and stopped. The policeman got out, tapped on the window of the car and indicated to the driver that the end of the line was thataway. It made my day and that of the other weary waiters-in-line who had watched the attempted muscle-in.

Since then I have noticed as I travel around town (mostly afoot) that our police are close by when lines form at the service stations. They keep drive-ways and intersections unclogged and are on hand to untangle frustrated drivers who somehow are pointing the other way in a one-way line.

I'm sure the police have more vital and dangerous duties that they continue to perform, but I think we should all be glad that they have added to those, the job of ushers-on-wheels.

The fee for swimming will be $7 per month for each team member.

The first day of swimming will be March 18.
